“Building a life I don't need vacations from”

- C. Conde

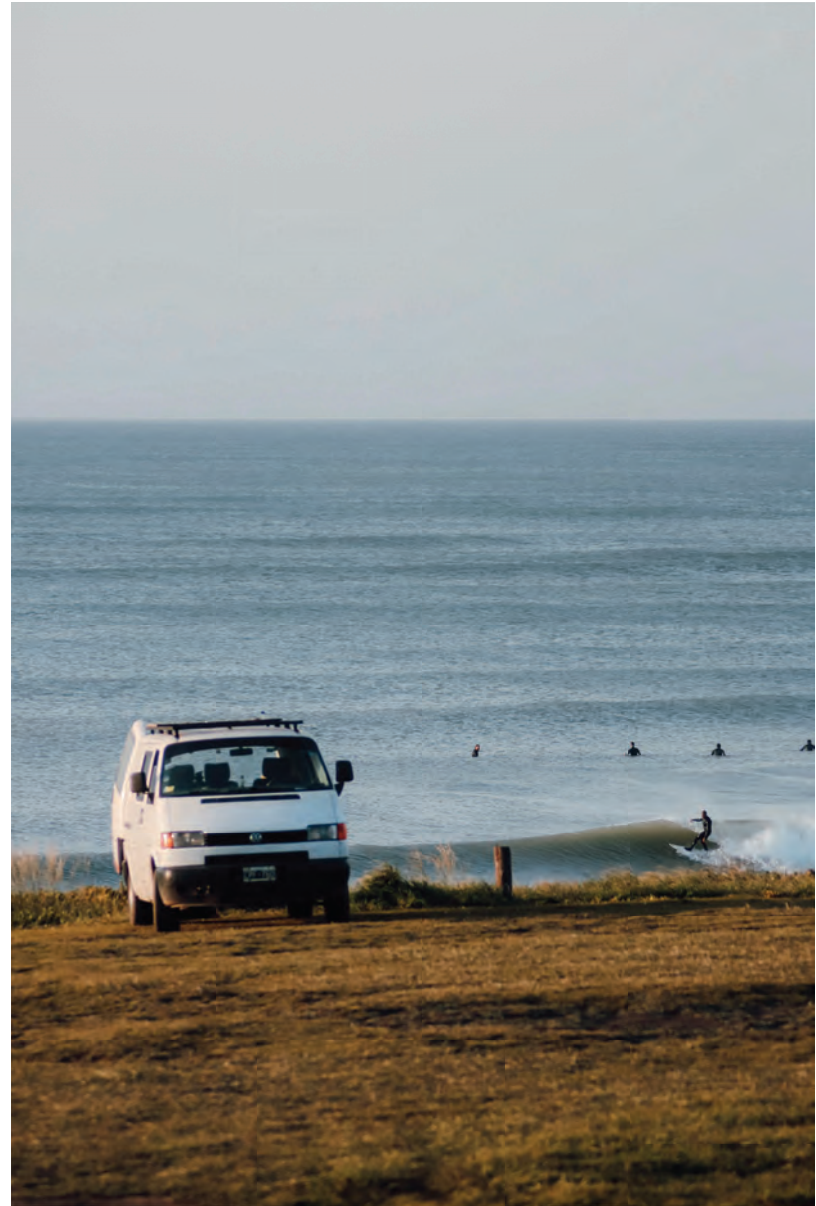

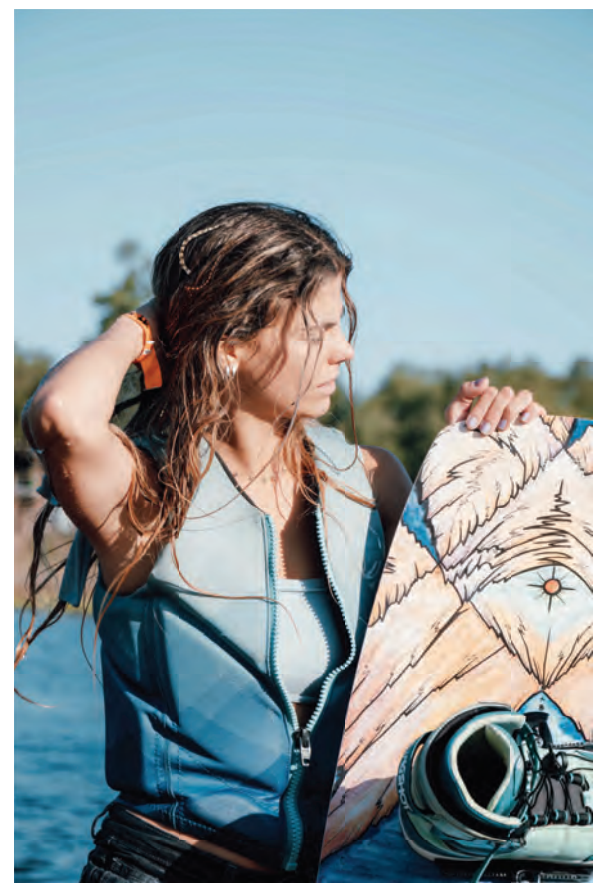

Born in Argentina and inspired by the stories and films of traveling and reaching places that only few would. In my films and photos I am capturing real moments. When directing, I am recreating happiness and inspiring talents to have fun. Behind the lens I strive for beauty, there is beauty all around us, I like to share it with others and change the way they see what's around. My biggest ambitions are going places where multiple outdoor skills are required to reach those unique destinations. In a way I feel that that's the way to prove to myself that I have spent the right amount of time learning and exploring the world.
